IT'S RAINING WOES IN CHENNAI

• (Clockwise from top) People walk along the shore during heavy rains at Marina beach in Chennai on Tuesday; a motorcyclist wades through a waterlogged street in an inundated locality; and a girl tries to shield herself from the rain. The northeast monsoon eased up over Chennai and coastal areas of Tamil Nadu around noon on Tuesday, providing respite to residents overwhelmed by near-continuous rainfall over the last 24 hours. The worst, however, is far from over as the Met predicts continued heavy to very heavy rainfall for the next three days.
